

June 4, 2010

Country Living Home Green Home unveiled

[New York] Developed by New World Home and designed by the staff of Country Living magazine, the Country Living Home Green Home was unveiled June 3, 2010 at the World Financial Center here. The 1,600 square foot Hudson cottage features reclaimed hardwood flooring in an elm species and EverStrand carpet from Mohawk; parquet butcher block bamboo countertops from Teragren; and cabinets from Armstrong's Town and Country Collection. "Our objective is to bring green education to the forefront so we will be hosting green tours throughout the event, explaining our whole-systems approach to home design and construction," said Tyler Schmetterer, founder and CEO of New World Home.

All of the products in the home were selected to obtain maximum Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED) credits based on the system by the U.S. Green Building Council (USGBC), according to Mark Jupiter, president and founder of New World Home.

The Country Living Home Green Home will be open to the public until June 17, 2010.