

HOUSE &Garden

April 10, 2007

Planet Pick: Bamboo Butcher Block

By Jen Renzi

We've had our eye on Teragren for a while. One of the leading manufacturers of eco-friendly bamboo flooring, the company recently branched into an exciting new product: bamboo parquet butcher block. The durable material is perfect for countertops, tables, and other eating surfaces since it's free of formaldehyde and uses only food-safe adhesives. Health benefits aside, we also love the end-grain texture. Check out the company's website for more information, as well as a great primer for questions you should ask when choosing bamboo for your home. teragren.com

To read last week's pick click here.

http://www.houseandgarden.com/green/picks/planet_pick_20070410